BURGESS J. deB. ABBOTT.

BRISTOL CARPET MILLS.

It can be said without fear of contradiction that Bristol is proud of having one of the largest carpet mills in the country.

This firm started in a retail way on Arch street, Philadelphia, in 1865. In 1866 they did a jobbing business under the firm name of Leonard & Shaw, continuing until January 1st, 1870, when the firm became Leonard, Shaw & Stewart. Then again in 1876 to Thomas L. Leonard & Co., Mr. Shaw and Mr. Stewart retiring.

This partnership continued until December 31st, 1901, when the T. L. Leonard Co. was incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania.

PEIRCE & WILLIAMS.

The Bristol Wood Working Mill was established in 1875 by Joseph Sherman, and in 1884, William O. Peirce became an equal partner, the firm being known as Sherman & Peirce. The Bristol Wood Working Mill is one of the largest and best equipped plants of its kind in this section. Lumber and Mill Work in varieties, stair work, hardwood specialties, hot-beds and other work, furnish houses complete from architects' designs. A large and adequate force of skillful workmen are employed and all contracts and orders are faithfully executed in a prompt and courteous manner. Mr. Peirce has served his townsmen in many public capacities,

JAMES WRIGHT.

Among the business enterprises of Bristol none is more favorably known than that of James Wright, dealer in dry goods, notions, groceries and provisions. This well known business house was established thirty-five years ago and in those years has earned a reputation for commendable business dealings which is second to none. James Wright is a native of Bristol. His store is stocked with the best goods obtainable and all customers are assured of the best. Mr. Wright is ever watchful for the satisfaction of his many patrons and all orders are executed in a prompt and courteous manner. Mr. Wright has served his townsmen in many public capacities,

J. DeB. ABBOTT, N. D.

J. DeB. Abbott was graduated from Hahnemann College in 1887 and came to Bristol in 1890. Dr. Abbott was formerly identified with the London University Hospital as well as other famous institutions in Paris, and is recognized as one of the county's ablest practitioners. He is a man of great popularity and always takes an active interest in all affairs pertaining to the welfare of Bristol. Dr. Abbott was elected Burgess in 1903, an office he held with distinction to himself and satisfaction to the town.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS

By our Doylestown Correspondent.

Doylestown, Oct. 9, 1905. Sensations have been caused in the County Seat this week, but a mysterious suicide took the residents from the town for a few days because they were busy guessing who in this quiet little town would be most likely to do such a thing. It is needless to say that a half dozen prominent people were talked into the case. Human nature is a funny thing. The rumor started over so faintly but in a day scores of residents were as anxious to discover the ground-bowling as if there had been a watch or a farm offered or the solution of the puzzle.

Farmers have come to the front row of notoriety this week on account of a prize of $5 offered by landowner George W. Ott. It consisted of a large ear of corn on top of which were nine little ears about three inches long, all perfectly formed.

Captain William P. Taylor, who forwarded his resignation as Commander of Company G, 8th Regt., N. G. P., of this place, to headquarters a few days ago, has received word from Colonel Corry that it will be accepted. In his letter the Colonel speaks highly of Captain Taylor's services.

After having been in a Philadelphia hospital for many weary weeks on account of a fractured knee cap Rev. Samuel A. Bridges Storr has returned to his home here and resumed his duties as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Thirty-eight cases are on the jury and equity court which begins on the 16th inst.

Treasurer George W. McIntosh, of the School Board, has received the appropriation of $2376.48 from the State Treasurer.

Every resident of the town was stirred up this week by the report of a mysterious attempted suicide here and the excitement continued until Friday when a persevering reporter discovered who the would-be suicide was, settling the many rumors and the allegation that it was a hoax. It appears that the young man was unconscious and repentant.

Indians of this place—not wild ones but members of the tribe of O. M. M., are rejoicing because of the prosperity which has beamed upon them. Ten years ago the tribe were bankrupt and had no money, but since that time many new members have been admitted and persistent efforts have resulted in gaining many new members and more wampum, so that at present the membership is 130, and the Keeper of Wampum has $1700 in his hands.

Judge Mahlon H. Stott has adopted a new rule of Court which was made necessary by the Act of Assembly of April 23, 1905. The rule is as follows: "Sheriff's deeds and coroners' deeds shall remain in the office of the Probate Court undisturbed for ten days after acknowledgment, and until after all proceedings to set aside for the sale and all exceptions of its confirmation, if any, shall have been finally disposed of; and if no motion to set aside the sale shall be made or exceptions to its confirmation filed within said period of ten days, the Probate Court shall deliver the deed to the Sheriff or Coroner, who shall forthwith cause it to be recorded in the office for the recording of deeds as provided for by the Act of April 22, 1905. All rules of this court relative to the acknowledgment and delivery of Sheriff's deeds, so far as the same are inconsistent herewith, are hereby revoked and set aside."

William H. Kenderdine, of this place, has been awarded by Governor Pennypacker to a scholarship in the Industrial Art School, Philadelphia.

Guns have been returning empty handed from their squirrel hunts this week.

Postmaster William F. Kelly announces that the postoffice can hardly be moved to the Lehigh Building in less than three months—and there are scores of residents of it. Why the change was ordered seems to be a mystery.

Every enthusiastic fisherman in town seems to be having great luck. Several have returned with as high as 16 black bass, but the prize being record is held by Master Evertis Aler, a little fellow, who, without an outfit which cost $30, won the big anglers' cup, captured 30 minnows and catfish in the Neesham this week.

Pride in the public schools was expressed by several of the directors at a last meeting. One of them declared that he had never seen them better organized. The force of teachers was highly complimented and there are scores of residents of it. Why the change was ordered seems to be a mystery.

she alleges, Rosa got a hatchet and threatened to cut her head open. There was no testimony to corroborate this and Rosa denied it, claiming that it was the work of the prosecution of the malicious old woman who was always "picking at her." The case was dismissed, of course, but the question of the ownership of the apples remained unsettled as the prosecution did not want to have a jury trial and declared she would settle it by cutting the tree down, which conclusion the Justice thought was equal in wisdom to that of Solomon.

Clerk of Orphan Court Jesse C. Everett exhibited this week a curious corn. It consisted of a large ear of corn on top of which were nine little ears about three inches long, all perfectly formed.

Presbyterian Church by Rev. Robert H. Labaree, former pastor of the church, who went to Trumir, Persia, to take the place of his brother, Rev. Benjamin Labaree, who was barbarously murdered and mutilated by the Kurds. The fallowing crops, he says, will mean the starvation of thousands who will swarm the mission for assistance and be turned away, the crippling of the churches and a general suffering. It may mean, he says, that a plea for help will have to be sent to this country.

Vaccination laws have been observed for several years in the public schools here but the Board of Health decided this week to furnish the necessary plan and have the principal of the schools keep a registry, which the law demands for the inspection of the Board.

No progress has been made toward the appointment of a receiver for the Philadelphia and Eastern Railway Company in Bucks county on account of a similar application made in Philadelphia. That must be disposed of first. A few days ago, however, the case was held by the court on two questions—that of the jurisdiction of the court and the eligibility of the Director Trust Company to act as receiver, as proposed. Convicted educational circles have witnessed an innovation introduced by County Superintendent A. S. Martin in holding meetings at which addresses are made to the teachers and ideas are exchanged. Some time ago Mr. Martin held a meeting for the benefit of the young people who are just embarking on the profession of teaching, and on Saturday another such meeting was held, when he explained his ideas on school affairs.

His talks touch several vital points. In speaking of the curriculum of the State directors, teachers and pupils ought to co-operate in making the grounds attractive; that school houses should be worthy of modern life, that the furniture should be comfortable and the rooms airy, heated, ventilated and decorated. Officers have been sent out to the teachers also contain hints of the needs of the teachers and pupils and the little things which will benefit both of them. Notable among his suggestions is that the pupils should be instructed in local history, a study which has occupied but a small place in the curriculum of the Bucks county schools in past years, but which is becoming recognized as a valuable study for the children. But a hint can be given of the interest attaching to these matters and talking to the County Superintendent. They appear to be popular with the teachers and are well attended.

Something unusual and unexpected as it was a national occurrence when the Montague and Joseph Montague, junk dealers of Norristown, were arraigned for receiving stolen goods, and their son, who was one of the defendants, was charged with receiving stolen goods from the Philadelphia, Bristol and Trenton Street Railway Company, gave testimony which practically convicted his father, who was one of the defendants. He declared that he had left his father's employ because he was compelled him to receive stolen goods at their junk store. He had considered it morally wrong. He made the statement only and without emotion, apparently unconscious of the sensation he was causing.
